

Through the study of history, we impart powerful knowledge which provides students with an understanding of their own roots as well as broadening their horizons through developing their knowledge of other societies, cultures and histories. In particular, we aim to:

- Provide students with an understanding of change and continuity in Britain over time to better understand what it means to be British and our heritage
- Place our present state into historical context to better understand how today's society has come about
- Enable students to express themselves through clearly expressed, coherently organised, well-evidenced and nuanced judgements and essays
- Use interpretations to understand historians' perspectives and how they differ in their judgements
- Understand the complexity and diversity of people's lives across time and space
